

DISPUTE RESOLUTION INVOLVING US/LATIN AMERICA BUSINESS RELATIONSHIPS

Panelists

Raymundo Arenas, Head of Claims in Litigation, AXA Seguros México

Ricardo Morales-Gomez, Vice President and Managing Attorney, Legal, Assurant

Carlos A. Romero, Jr., Post & Romero, Coral Gables

Yves Hayaux-du-Tilly, Nader, Hayaux & Goebel, Mexico City and London

Edward K. Lenci, Hinshaw & Culbertson LLP, New York

How do arbitrations held in Latin America differ from arbitrations held in the US? How are they the same or similar?

The courts of the US have a strong policy favoring arbitration of disputes. Do Latin American nations have the same policy? Which do and which don't?

What are the key provisions to include in an agreement to arbitrate that involves arbitration with a cedent or reinsurer in Latin America?

What is the process for enforcing a US arbitral award in the nations of Latin America?

What are the obstacles, if any, that are faced when trying to enforce a US arbitral award in nations of Latin America?

What is the process for disputing or vacating a US arbitral award in the nations of Latin America?

Do you foresee Miami/Coral Gables becoming a significant forum for the arbitration of reinsurance disputes involving US/Latin America reinsurance relationships?

Do you foresee more arbitrations involving US/Latin America reinsurance relationships being held in Latin America instead of the US?

Are there organizations along the lines of ARIAS-US in Latin America? What is their role in the reinsurance arbitration process?

Q & A